HIS FIRST FIRE LOSS

Thomas A. Davis Has Unique Record As Fire Insurance Patron.

Over three score years and ten—and then some, and in an active business career of over half a century and keeping his property constantly insured, and having his first fire loss, and that a small one the past week, just the record of Mr. Thomas A. Davis, whose elegant home "Riverside," caught fire from a defective electric wire.

But for the cement ceiling confining the blaze until the arrival of the fire department, Mr. Davis' $10,000 home and at least $10,000 worth of furnishings and the best reference library probably in the State, would have been wrecked and ruined.

As it was his loss was less than $25.

BASEBALL MEETING

Tonight to Arrange For Financing 1914 Team—Every Fan Should Be There

Do you want Maysville to remain in the Ohio-West Virginia-Kentucky Base Ball League?

Then go to the Council Chamber tonight at 7:30 o'clock and assist in devising financial means to guarantee a successful team and season.

It can be done!

It must be done!

It will be done!

This is going to be the greatest baseball year in the history of the game.

Maysville has the plant and the franchise in one of the best minor leagues in the United States.

There will be money in it—rightly managed.

Of the $3,500 needed, $1,500 to $2,000 should be made at the opening game by making the admission to everybody alike, $1.00.

With certain elements eliminated that have produced some rotteness in the team and games heretofore, Maysville should show up well at the top this season.

If it will help any towards continuing the team here this year, The Public Ledger will pay a dollar each for five tickets to the opening game.

Attend tonight's meeting.

And now France is afflicted with the disease known in this country as "The New Freedom."

President Wilson is reported to be urging a law to put small business on equality with big business. What a practical business head he has, to be sure!

If all the dagtag laws that have been introduced by the new legislators at Frankfort are passed, a bob-tailed mongrel will become as expensive a luxury as a six-cylinder touring car.—Carlisle Mercury.

The great State of New York, realizing the value of visualization in education, will lend this year fully 200,000 lantern slides. No charge is made for their use, but a condition is made that they shall be used only for instruction. A catalogue of subjects and slides is prepared, and sent upon request, to any school official in the State of New York.

The procession of working children in America, if placed twelve feet apart in single file, would reach from San Francisco to Boston and thence to New York. To shorten the procession until it dwindles and disappears, the National Child Labor Committee says it needs to have not 7,500 members but 10,000, or one for each half mile of those children.

The predictions made by representatives of American printing establishments before the Ways and Means Committee, during the Tariff hearings, are being speedily fulfilled. A representative of the printing and lithographic firm of Hudson Scott & Sons, Carlisle, England, is now on a business tour in America and was recently in Boston, seeking orders for printing.

An eminent Ohio manufacturer writes a prediction to Leslie's which we place on record for the benefit of the thoughtful and patient reader. He says: "I want to be on record as predicting that the buying and consuming public will never know that a reduction in the tariff has taken place, but the manufacturers will, and so will their employees before the end of 1914."

The award of $6,000,000 increase in the wages of 100,000 trainmen in the East means that the interest on $120,000,000 shall be spent not on improved service for the public but on the employees. This might be very well if the roads were permitted to earn the money by adequate charges for the service rendered, but that is a horse of another color. The particular railroads involved in the decision have invested $2,000,000,000 more, and have earned $8,000,000 less during the three years since they were forbidden to advance rates, and have been compelled to increase expenses.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Many of Senator J. B. Hiles' friends are urging him to make the race for Congress in the Ninth District.—Falmouth Outlook.

THE OLD AND THE NEW BOY.

Where are all the boys who used to play "fox and hounds" and other healthful games?" asked a citizen yesterday. In answering his own question he said: "Go to the poolrooms and other loafing places and you will find them."—Owensboro Messenger.

LONG LIFE.

Sir John Lubbock, the scientist, has shown how insects may live if preserved from accident and harm of all kinds. The greatest age attained by an insect, as far as known, was that reached by a queen ant, which lived until August 8, 1888, when she was nearly fifteen years old. Another queen of the same species died after a life of thirteen years.

AS TO KENTUCKY LEMONS.

It is bruted abroad that the Hon. James Kehoe has a one and one-half pound lemon, which was presented to him by a Mason County farmer who grew the fruit and thirteen others like it.

Perhaps, but the only kind of lemons that men in public life expect to get from their constituents in Kentucky are the figurative variety. They grow abundantly all over the State and are handed to someone every now and then. In fact the man in public life who does not fear that his constituents are not saving them up in July to hand him in November is exceptionally fortunate.—Frankfort State Journal.

BEVERIDGE NOW ONLY A HOODOO.

Former Senator Beveridge is an eloquent orator and plausible phrase monger, as he demonstrated at the Ohio Bull Moose convention. But the principal effect of his disruptive propaganda in 1912 was to make his adopted State of Indiana solidly Democratic; and now his party in Hoosierdom is going to pieces. In coming to his native State of Ohio, his efforts are in effect simply an aid in perpetuating Democratic minority rule. It is a gradual realization of this fact which is the chief reason for the disintegration of the third party and the getting together of old-time political comrades, Walter Brown and James R. Garfield to the contrary notwithstanding.—Portsmouth Blade.

"ABE MARTIN" ON ADVERTISING.

In the February American Magazine, "Abe Martin," the Indiana philosopher, makes the following remarks on advertising:

"What's become o' th' ole-time merchants that used t' set a tubful o' dried apples an' a keg o' mackerel in front of his store an' then go t' sleep?"

Ever' feller that don't advertise hain't a fool, but very few fools advertise.

"Th' feller that don't know how t' advertise is about as bad as th' feller that don't believe in it."

"Folks are alius anxious t' see somebody they've read so much about, an' they'd be just as crazy t' see a clothes wringer er anything else under the same circumstances."

MIGHT BE A "TANGO COCKTAIL."

A well-known Nicholas County man tells this one: He was at a Lexington hotel a year or so ago. Slept rather late, rang for a bell boy and said: "Bring me a Courier-Journal and Carlisle Mercury." Presently "Front" returned and said: "Boss, heah is de Curus Journal, but de bahkeeper said he didn't know how to mix no sech drink as dat other thing what you wanted."

THE FIRST KENTUCKY HOME.

At last a dream is realized. The home of the Governors of Kentucky ablaze with light and abounding in hospitality has swung wide its doors to Kentuckians and the stranger within the gates.

For a long time it looked as if the new Mansion appropriation would never be passed and that eventually Kentucky Governors who did not wish to live in tubs like Diogenes, or in tepees like the Indians, must live in hotels.

At last we have a Mansion—and it is some mansion as Homer would say—and Frankfort heaves a sigh of relief and contentment, for Frankfort more than any city in Kentucky, felt the humiliation of the long delay in properly housing the Governor.—Frankfort Journal.

THE SITUATION AT FRANKFORT.

The Evening Post has more than once been sadly disappointed in a Kentucky Legislature that seem ed to start well, but we are more sanguine than usual concerning this Legislature. The House undoubtedly has in Mr. Terrell a Speaker of capacity, experience and integrity, and Mr. McDermott is of the same type as presiding officer of the Senate. Many of the new men in both House and Senate have evinced an earnest desire to do something for the State worth remembering. If the old lobby is at Frankfort it has not yet showed its hand, but the members of the Legislature should remember that it was publicity that broke the power of the lobby in the last Legislature.

HAVING A GOOD TIME WHILE STATE GOES TO THE DEVIL.

The negligence of Secretary of State Creelius in failing to perform his official duty, in properly advertising the submission of the constitutional amendments, will prove very costly to the State, and has brought down strong censure from every section on that official. While the Secretary of State is noimly the "goat," every other member of the State administration on Capitol Square, should come in for their part of the blame. Every State official seemed to be ignorant of the plain provisions of the Constitution, as to submitting amendments to the people. It looks to us that not only the Creelius, but a number of other members of the "official family" will land in the political scrap-heap by reason of their being asleep on the job. It will take some expert figuring to bring the State out of debt under the present tax laws.

SABOTAGE.

The meaning of the word sabotage is not generally understood by the average reader and we have endeavored to obtain its meaning from Larousse. "The definition of the word sabotage as used among French printers designates the dishonest act of a compositor who deliberately introduces errors into the text entrusted to him or otherwise deteriorates its value." In a supplement to Larousse the term is found defined as "the dishonest act of workmen who deliberately introduce poor work into that on which they are engaged." The new Standard Dictionary defines the word sabotage: First, the act of cutting shoes or socks etc in rails on railroad ties; second, the act of tying up a railroad by malicious damage; third, any poor work or other damage done by dissatisfied workmen, also the act of producing it; plant wrecking. It would seem therefore that the meaning of the word sabotage is any mean, under-handed action of workingmen for the purpose of destroying the machinery of production which they are manipulating; and this is urged by the Industrial Workers of the World as a means of bringing the employing class to time. Something like biting off your own nose to spite your face!—From the Square Deal.

Ethel—Dear me! What is her belief?

Maud—She believes that she can wear a No. 3 shoe on a No. 6 foot.

"AL" RINGLING—FAMOUS CIRCUS MAN.

In the "Interesting People" department of the February American Magazine appears an account of "Al" Ringling, the famous veteran showman. He and his brothers are the greatest powers in the circus world today. When they were school boys, they ran away from home and started to give a show in neighboring towns. They now own Barnum & Bailey's circus and many other of the most important shows. In the article Mr. Ringling is quoted as follows:

"I've always been in the circus business," he said. "As a schoolboy I ran away from home with one or two of my brothers and started to give a black-face show in neighboring towns. We were hardly started when my father arrived on the scene, the second or third day, and took us home—using a combination of sheer force and persuasion of another kind. But even though he took us home, he couldn't get the 'circus' out of our systems, and in 1882 we started out in earnest."

"Our first performance was in the jail yard in Baraboo. There are lots of people who still remember that performance, largely, I guess, because the seats fell down and almost broke up the show. Of course, it was only a small venture and had little to recommend it save the enthusiasm of the performers."

"Oh, yes!"—he anticipated my question—"we all performed in those days, all five of us. One of us was the ringmaster; another walked the tight rope; another ate fire; one was a clown; my act was juggling and rolling big cannon balls up and down my arms and around my neck. Some say that's why I'm a little stooped today."

"Did you have any animals then, any menagerie?"

"Only three or four horses, a monkey, and a hyena—but this last had a more blood-curdling name. We called him a 'grave-robbing man-eater.' As such he was a great success and brought us lots of business."

"This was in our wagon-show days," he continued. "We traveled by wagons for six years before we became a railroad show. In those times one year was about like another, but when we got onto the railroads we began to grow rapidly."

"I remarked that Mr. Ringling must have seen many changes take place in the circus business."

"Yes, indeed!" he replied. "And when I think of the pioneers whose names headed the 'greatest shows on earth' I begin to feel like an old man although I'm only sixty-four." A reminiscent look came into the kindly eyes which look out from beneath black, bushy eyebrows of marked contrast to the circus man's silver-gray and close-cropped hair. "Barnum, of course, has been dead a good many years. His son and successor, Bailey, is also dead, and we boys own the Barnum & Bailey show. The Forepaugh brothers are gone, so are the Sells brothers. Their combined show belongs to me individually. There was a time also when we controlled the Buffalo Bill Wild West. Come to think of it, I'm pretty near the veteran showman today, although I've got four younger brothers associated with me in the business."

When a man sees a view depicting a street scene of about 1850, he always wonders what happened to the hoop skirt when they hit a windy corner.

REVENUE CUTTERS FOR THE OHIO RIVER.

Washington.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Byron T. Newton, who is strongly advocating an appropriation for one or more revenue cutters to ply the Ohio, and to use in enforcing the marine laws, as well as in relief work during periods of high water, says he is much encouraged as a result of the friendly disposition toward the appropriation shown by members of Congress. Secretary Newton insists that he will continue to push this item in the appropriation bill as long as there is a chance to secure its adoption.

WEST UNION C. G. & P. EXTENSION CERTAIN

Advisors of Road Have Endorsed Plan and First Steps Are To Be Taken at Once.

President Henry Haigh was in Georgetown, for a few hours Wednesday afternoon. He had come almost direct from Detroit, where he has been ill. Upon advice of his physician he went on to West Baden Springs for a few weeks. As soon as he has recuperated he expects to come back and take up the rearrangement of the C. G. & P., such as appointing a general manager and other matters of importance.

Mr. Haigh confirmed the report that the C. G. & P. would build to West Union during the summer. He has been watching this territory, as have other well known railroad men, and they have advised that this was the best railroad extension prospect in this portion of Ohio. For this reason he has decided to extend the line, but under just what terms he has not yet decided.

FOUND AFTER TWO YEARS

Needle That Penetrated Foot Just Removed.

Georgetown.—A needle that penetrated the foot of Clara W. Christopher two years ago and could not then be located by physicians has just been removed. Tuesday the girl felt a sharp pain in her heel and a physician was called. He soon determined the cause and quickly removed the cause of irritation by extracting the long-lost needle.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would faint for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles." Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

Washington—T. D. Slattery, of Maysville, not "J. M." Slattery, as erroneously announced in the Evening Post from Washington, is to be United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky. The error on the part of the Evening Post correspondent was in the initials only of Mr. Slattery's name.

Panama.—The Panama Canal has reached such a condition of completion that a large ocean steamer could now pass through, according to a statement today by Col. George W. Goethals. Both ends of the canal are practically completed, only the electrical installation and cleaning up remaining to be finished.

ADMIRAL FLETCHER THE SCIENTIFIC SAILOR OF UNCLE SAM'S BIG NAVY

Noted Naval Officer Has Invented Some of the Most Valuable Mechanical Contrivances in Use in the Service—He Is Also Exceedingly Well Read in International Law—Was Born in Oskaloosa, Iowa, in 1855.

Washington.—Friday Fletcher everybody in the navy calls him. He got his nickname in a rather odd way. It so chanced that the officer who now commands the American naval forces in Mexican waters was born on the sixth day of the week in the town of Oskaloosa, Ia. The exact date was November 23, 1855. His father on this account used to call him "my little man Friday."

When he was a little chap of seven his father died. At fourteen he was appointed to Annapolis, and in due course was escorted thither by an older brother, who when called upon to put the youngster's name down on the roster of boys entering the Naval academy, wrote "Frank Friday Fletcher."

This did not particularly please the family, because Friday was not really a part of his name. But naturally under the circumstances it stuck. He was called Friday all through the five years he spent at the academy—he dropped back one class, being rather young to keep up—and ever since that time his fellow officers in the service have known him as Friday Fletcher and nothing else.

Young Fletcher was graduated from Annapolis on June 21, 1875, and soon afterward was assigned to duty on board the United States steamer Tuscarora, which was engaged in surveying a submarine route for a projected cable to connect California with Japan. This, by the way, was a very interesting job.

It involved an exploration of the ocean depths, almost the first ever made, and specimens of the materials composing the sea floor were brought up from the bottom all the way across the Pacific. Just east of Japan the Tuscarora discovered the deepest hole that exists anywhere in the world, a marine abyss, known to this day as the Tuscarora Deep, the soundings failing to touch bottom at five and a quarter miles below the waves.

Although accident first directed young Fletcher's attention to scientific matters, incidentally to his professional duties, he soon showed a special aptitude for such pursuits. He has an investigative turn of mind, and if he had not happened to become a naval officer it is altogether likely that he would have been an inventor.

Indeed, some of the most valuable mechanical contrivances used in the navy, especially in connection with guns, were originated by him. Among these are improvements in telescopic sights; the well-known Fletcher breech closing mechanism, and a frictionless gun mount for quick fire rifles.

Another very remarkable cruise, in 1879-1881, took the young officer to Korea, on the steam sloop Ticonderoga, then a formidable warship. Commanded by Commodore R. W. Shufeldt, she was sent around the world in obedience to a special order of congress, and in behalf of the department of state, to make what was called a commercial and diplomatic cruise. The most important object of the expedition was to open negotiations with the government of Korea for a treaty which would insure the protection of the lives and property of Americans.

It was also desired to open Korea to American commerce, and Japan, being at that time on very cordial terms with the United States, had signified her willingness to lend assistance toward this end. But when the Ticonderoga entered the harbor of Fusan, May 14, 1880, the officials refused to accept the letter handed to them by Commodore Shufeldt, on the ground that it was addressed to the king of Korea, whereas their monarch was properly designated as the king of Chro-Sen—which, being translated, means "Land of the Morning Calm." Accordingly, the American vessel was obliged to withdraw with nothing accomplished, her departure being signalized by a derisive salute from a Korean fort.

Korea, although nominally an independent monarchy, was in reality under the suzerainty of China. Accordingly, the expedition proceeded to Chinese waters and, after spending a year there all difficulties were surmounted, and the Ticonderoga returned to Korea, thereupon negotiating a treaty which was signed by the high contracting parties in a temporary pavilion erected on an point of land opposite the ship.

He is a man of medium height, neither stout nor thin, and too rugged looking to be handsome.

Unlike most naval officers he did not marry until he had reached middle age. His wife was a Washington girl, Miss Susan H. Stetson. The Fletcher home is in Washington at 1441 Massachusetts avenue, and they have two young daughters.

Admiral Fletcher's flagship in Mexican water is the battleship Rhode Island. In addition there are under his command the battleships Nebraska, Virginia, New Jersey, Michigan, South Carolina and Louisiana; the cruisers Tacoma and Chester, the gunboat Wheeling and the supply ship Culgoa. It is a formidable fleet.

CUPID A VERY "QUEER KID"

Beginning and Ending of Romance in Which Not a Single Word Was Spoken.

Huntington, W. Va.—For two years persons living near the railroad tracks here have watched for the Overland freight, which is due through here at 4:30 in the afternoon. To those who were disinterested watchmen the event simply meant a glimpse at the "mad fireman," as they called him, for as the train whirled by here that member of the crew would hang out of the cabin, wave a piece of waste or a handkerchief in the direction of the long hill and presently throw kisses until the train was out of sight. "Some nut" was the verdict of the spectators.

But away up on the hill Miss Sylve Price, standing on the veranda of her father's house, waited for the daily performance, and when it had ended sighed "some dream." She had never spoken to the fireman, but more than two years ago began to correspond with him. He waved each day, and finally one day when she stood on the platform at the little railroad station he dropped a card with his name and address near her.

The courtship began by correspondence and continued until all arrangements had been made for their marriage. She had never heard his voice, and her only impressions of him were obtained from his letters and his performance at the door of the engine. Recently Miss Price went to Ashland, Ky., to be married to the fireman, who corresponded with her under the name of F. L. Francis. She waited at the church for hours and then went to the railroad offices. No one of that name was employed there, she was told. She returned to her home heartbroken. Next day the Overland pulled through town; an old man was stoking the engine, and he didn't even look up.

Cupid's a queer kid, isn't he?

FIND BIG PRE-GLACIAL LOG

Piece of Wood Neatly Hewn 40,000 Years Ago Is Unearthed by New York Builder.

New York.—Whoever it was that went out of the cave, near lower Broadway, for some kindling wood, one evening more than 40,000 years ago, and, after splitting it with a stone ax, left a big hunk for the morrow's gathering, probably didn't stop to consider how many years would go by in Little Old New York before that piece of wood would be picked up. But it has been found. Officers of the Thompson-Starrett company have it in their possession.

It is a cedar log from the pre-glacial period, found in the excavation for the Equitable building, which this company is erecting in the next municipal election. Scientists say the log has been there since the glaciers swept over this portion of North America 40,000 or more years ago.

At that time nearly half of North America was buried under glacial ice. The log has been neatly cut, and is in perfect preservation.

PROPER FEEDING OF DAIRY COWS PROMPTLY REFLECTED IN YIELD

Abundance the First Essential But Correct Balance in Ration Also Is Important—Economy Has to Be Considered in Selection of Food For Herds

It pays to feed good dairy cows. The returns are prompt and sure. You feed the cow, take your bucket and go right around and draw your pay at once.

The first essential in feeding is that an ample quantity of feed be supplied. It does not pay to run an engine upon half capacity. Neither does it pay to run a cow on half capacity. Big milk yields are secured only when the cow eats a large amount of feed.

It is also important that the feed shall be correctly balanced, and shall furnish the elements necessary to maintain the cow and to furnish the material which go to make up milk.

Next, the ration should be palatable, that is of such a nature that the cow will relish it. Pasture grass and silage are splendid examples of palatable feeds, as are also such feeds as wheat bran, oil meal and cotton seed meal, fresh and not musty, and bright, sweet, well-cured hay.

Next the feed shall be economical or cheap. Some feeds are palatable and well balanced, but are entirely too expensive for cow feed. At times wheat bran, oats and oil meal must be placed in the class of feeds which are too expensive for profitable use for feeding in large quantities. Home grown feeds are usually the most economical, as feeds grown on the farm do not have the producers' profit placed upon them.

Corn and the legume hays, such as clover, alfalfa and cowpea form a perfectly balanced, home grown ration. Those dairymen, as a rule, secure the greatest profits who grow large amounts of feed on the farm.

Another important matter in successful cow feeding is that the cow be given a sufficient variety. A cow tires if forced to eat a single feed for a long period without change. A mixture of several different feeds serves to whet the cow's appetite.

An ample quantity of good, clean roughage is exceedingly important. This is best furnished by clover, cowpea or alfalfa, hay, corn stover or silage. Best results are obtained when roughage constitutes about two-thirds of the cow's ration by weight. The following grain mixtures give splendid results when fed to milk cows:

(a) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds cotton seed meal.

(b) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 150 pounds dried distiller's grains, 100 pounds cotton seed meal.

(c) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 200 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds cotton seed meal.

(d) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds cotton seed meal.

In connection with good legume hay and silage the cow should be given one pound of the mixture for each three to three and one-half pounds of milk given, when the roughage is not a legume, 1 pound grain mixture to 2½ to 3 pounds of milk.

A cow of ordinary size will consume thirty pounds of silage per day to advantage, and when silage is fed the amount of hay required is reduced one-half.

Two good home grown rations are as follows:

(e) 10 pounds crushed corn and all the alfalfa, cow-pea and clover hay the cows will clean up.

(f) 10 pounds crushed corn, corn stover at liberty, alfalfa, cow-pea or clover hay.

The most important constituent of a dairy feed is protein. Cotton seed meal, oil meal, wheat bran, dried distiller's grains, alfalfa, cow-pea and clover hay are examples of feeds rich in protein. The protein is used principally in the production of the casein or curd of milk, and a large quantity is required for this purpose. The value of a feed is largely determined by the quantity of digestible protein which it contains.

Good results have been secured when the ration consisted of corn silage, cotton seed meal and cow-pea or clover hay and corn stover. With silage, cow-pea or clover hay, feed one pound of one of the above grain mixtures to three and one-half to four pounds of milk given by the cow. It is safe to feed the cow about all the silage she will clean up. The same is true of hay.

The wise dairyman will grow silage and corn and protein-rich hay and will buy protein only to a limited extent and then in the form of such feeds as cotton seed meal, dried distiller's grains, etc. A small amount of wheat bran or oil meal may be occasionally added for the sake of palatability and variety.

The mixtures mentioned above are only a few of the possible mixtures which may be used with good results. More complete information on the subject of profitable feeding and handling of dairy cows may be obtained by communicating with the dairy department of the State University Experiment Station.

ABORTION NEXT TO TUBERCULOSIS AMONG MENACES

(By L. S. Corbett, Department of Animal Husbandry Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.)

Probably infectious or contagious abortion causes greater loss to our dairymen and cattle breeders than any other disease, except tuberculosis. It is practically impossible to estimate the amount of money lost annually through abortion, as there are no statistics available with respect to the number of calves lost because of this disease. A large portion of the cows in Kentucky is of registered stock, the calves from these animals are valued at fifty dollars or more, the loss of the calf alone is serious. The loss of the calf from a grade cow is but small part of the total loss, for in the majority of cases the fetus is aborted so early in pregnancy that the cow does not freshen and, therefore, produces little or no milk. A cow may slip two or three calves in succession, and, if such is the case, she is deprived of her usefulness for a large part of the best portion of her life. Often, infectious abortion results in temporary sterility, and only after many months and repeated attempts will the animal be safely gotten in calf.

All abortions are not caused by an infectious disease. Crowding of animals, a heavy fall, a severe hook or kick; in short, an injury of any kind, poor condition of the breeding animals, exposure to severe weather, undue excitement and other causes may result in the casting of the calf. Such abortions are mainly accidents, and the remedy lies in better methods of management.

There is at present no known specific remedy for infectious abortion in cattle. There are a number of so-called "cures" upon the market. The majority of these have as their basis a carbolic acid solution. Carbolic acid has often been proposed as a remedy for this disease, and many breeders have used it with apparently excellent success, others have used it without results.

Infectious abortion in cows is taken up in detail in Bulletins Nos. 165 and 166 of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, and these bulletins will be sent free to any person applying for them.

In keeping cows never be without clover. It is one of the foods essential to good dairying.

It is none too soon to begin to think about putting up a silo for next fall.

Both the winter and the summer silo are revolutionizing the dairy business. Many farmers would as soon think of producing milk without cows as without a silo.

Are there any old apple trees in your orchard bearing undesirable fruit? It is easy to graft good varieties upon them.

In purchasing a boar it is well to bear in mind that one with heavy bones is more to be desired than one of slight build.

Elaborate and Beautiful Evening Gown

THE Oriental influence is distinct enough in this elaborate evening gown, in which one thin fabric after another is draped over the silk foundation. There is first a skirt of silk veiled with chiffon. Six narrow ruffles are also veiled with chiffon with a border or tuck of this fabric extending below each ruffle.

Over this skirt a tulle of lace is worn, extending almost to the knees. One would think this quite enough in the way of draping, but over this a drapery of gorgeously embroidered chiffon is gathered like a second tunic.

By way of further elaboration a wreath of scattered chiffon roses on a fuzzy stem extends from the bust to the hem of the embroidered chiffon, and a small bouquet at its upper end finishes the corsage.

The draped shoulder and opening at the neck are finished with a fine lace edging. There is a narrow crushed girdle of chiffon.

The natural lines of the figure are followed in this wonderful gown, and

NETS AND SHADOW LACES USED FOR THE LATEST BLOUSE

THE last step in the direction of thin materials for blouses is said.

There isn't anything thinner than nets and shadow laces.

An underblouse with sleeve caps, (finished with lace) is made of the same net as that used over it, in the waist model shown here. A broad band of ribbon is tucked to it below the bust and finished with a bow at the left side. The blouse with long sleeves is placed over this. The shoulder seams and under arm seams are in one.

A double frill of net encircles the neck and extends down the front with round pearl buttons for fastening.

This fact is now understood by most dressmakers. In almost all the gowns and blouses of yellow there is a generous use of cream or white tulle at the throat. There is usually a touch of black somewhere on these yellow garments. A little black velvet at the wrist or elbow or belt, or a knot of black in the drapery of the skirt, gives character to the color that might otherwise seem monotonous.

Two Kinds of Wrinkles.

Can you tell the difference between wrinkles produced by smiling and those produced by discontent? And which would you rather have? Perhaps you say "Neither." But the wrinkles from happiness only come after a couple of scores of years of smiling, while those which spring from worry may grow over night.

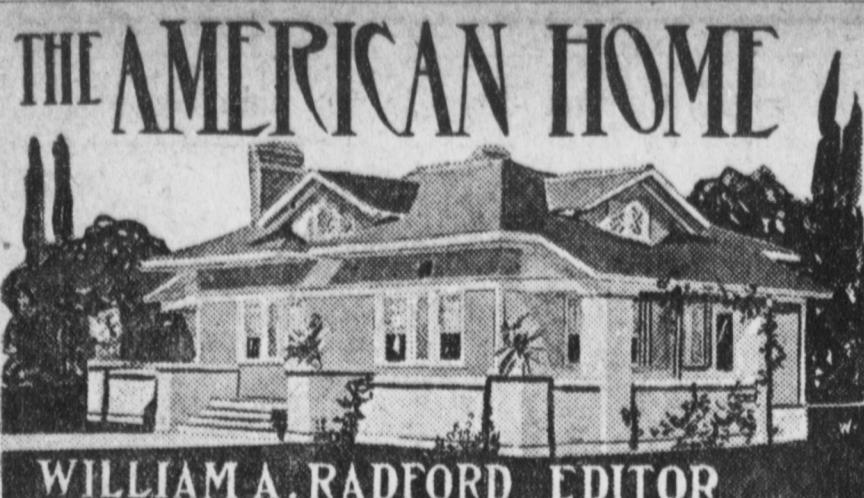

Another argument for the smile wrinkle is that when it comes it is really attractive, curving up and giving the face even in repose a happy expression. On the other hand, the lines born of discontent make the expression unhappy.

There are few smiling faces in any big city. There is an anxious, hurried look on every face you pass on the street. Is it any wonder young women grow wrinkled before their time and are forced to spend hours in the hands of a masseuse, so that they may frown as much as they like at other times?

WILLIAM A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. The study of stairways and the proper placing of them in dwelling houses is responsible for more suicides among architects than any other feature of the business.

Even since two story houses were first built stairs have occupied prominent positions, usually in front in full view of the street door where floor space is more valuable than in any other part of the house. The front stair not only takes up valuable space on both floors but it often spoils the living room or parlor down stairs and curtails two of the best bedrooms upstairs.

Now, the stairway in this plan solves the problem in a new way. It not only fills a new felt want, but it fills the neighbors with envy and the contractor with malice, because the workmanship must be so exact to please the owner that he can never get out of it with a profit.

However, this stairway seems to overcome many difficulties. It occupies the least valuable corner in the house, which is right because nobody stays in the stairway any longer than he can help. You sit in a dining room long enough to enjoy a good meal, you lounge in the living room until necessity drives you to work or sleepiness drives you to bed, and you stay in a nice front bedroom all night and part of the morning if the boss don't ob-to avoid cracks and other defects of former work of this kind.

ject; all of which goes to show the necessity and importance of dedicating the best and most valuable house space to the greatest possible service and comfort.

I realize at once that it is very difficult to change an old established custom and I also recognize the fact that all changes are not improvements. But I have never heard anybody give a satisfactory reason for planting a stairway in the best part of the house. Before selecting your house plan think this over.

A great many of these square built houses with square hip roofs, cottage roofs they used to be called when I was a boy, are being built all over the country. It seems a sensible way to build a house. From the foundation to the comb of the roof it is symmetrical and it is sensible. It is characteristic of good thrifty American ideas. It is a plan that suggests comfort and stability, and it probably provides more of both than most plans.

The size of this house is twenty-six feet in width by twenty-seven feet six inches in length; rather small some builders would say for six rooms, but after looking the plan over most people will agree that the rooms are large enough and that they are airy, well lighted, easily heated and properly connected with each other. When you have said this you have encompassed the most essential features of a good residence.

A great many houses of this design are being built of cement. Sometimes a wooden frame is erected in the usual way and an outside coating of cement used instead of wood siding. The cement coating is plastered onto expanded metal lath, or common wooden lath furred out with lath strips placed a foot apart to give the cement a solid backing with plenty of clinch room. Men accustomed to cement plastering have learned how to put it on so it will be permanent. They have learned how "Brandy Nan" Looks Shabby. Queen Anne's statue outside St. Paul's cathedral, London, is in a pitiful condition. The scepter is bent out of shape and the statue was last gilded so long ago that it is positively shabby.

It is curious that ill luck of this kind has dogged the statue ever since it was first erected, 201 years ago, to commemorate the completion of the cathedral. In the eighteenth century there was a certain tavern upon which the queen's eyes were supposed to rest, and this inspired the following couplet:

Brandy Nan, Brandy Nan, you're left in the lurch,
Your face to the dramshop, your back to the church.

Lots Like Wigley. "When it comes to the showdown every man can be brave, don't you think?"

"Sure I do. Take Wigley, for instance—meekest man you ever saw when he pays his gas bill, and a veritable lion for balling out the meter reader every time he catches him in the basement."

The Proper Ones. "I assure you," said Huerta, "that there is not the slightest need for American interference."

"If we see the need," carelessly replied Uncle Sam, "you can tell that to the marines."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JANUARY 25

SERVING JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 8:1-8; 9:57-62; 10:38-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even the least, ye did it unto me."—Matt. 25:40.

The first section of our lesson text has no connection with the other two. It is taken from a time several months previous to the time of the Perian ministry and was undoubtedly chosen as an indication of the company who traveled with Jesus and his disciples, and who provided for his needs. We must remember that Jesus was not supported by a board, a church, nor by some philanthropically inclined fellow citizen. It is to the second two sections therefore that we devote our chief attention.

Different Classes.

1. Those who would follow Jesus, 9:57-62. Read carefully Matt. 8:19-22. Three different classes are here represented: (1) The impulsive follower (v. 57, 58). This is the man who is moved by a sudden desire to accompany this marvelous Teacher, but like the man in the parable, does not sit down and count the cost ere he starts to build his house. This thought is emphasized when we read (Matt. 8:19) that this man was a scribe, one who would not be expected to make such a resolve. He must have been deeply stirred by what he had seen and heard in the life of Jesus. Such a resolve promised well, but it is soon revealed to him that he did not realize what was involved in his promise (v. 58). Jesus showed the man that the road of righteousness is a prairie path. The road of disobedience is a rough one, as the man who went to Jericho found, still the road of righteousness is a narrow one, Matt. 7:13, 14. Every follower of Jesus must be willing to take what he took, and to receive what he received, John 15:20; 1 Pet. 2:21.

This sentence (v. 58) has done more to give us a comprehension of the earthly surroundings of our Lord than any other in the gospels, 2 Cor. 8:9. (2) The procrastinating follower (v. 59). Jesus did not forbid the first man, he simply showed him what was involved. This man, however, Jesus invited to a place as disciple—learner. That he was willing to accept is evident, only he was not yet quite ready, "I will, but—" It is not at all probable that this man's father was awaiting burial; had his father but just died, and awaiting burial, Jesus would not have prevented. Rather he was indicating a father about to die and that he would follow after his father's death. Hence the sharp words of the Master, "Let the dead bury the dead." A proper duty, a sacred duty, but not so proper nor so sacred as to have precedence over the claims of Jesus, Matt. 6:33; 10:37. Men do not as a rule miss opportunities to make money, to serve their ambitions nor to gratify their desires, by the excuse of waiting to look after aged parents. Jesus would have us bury the dead when they are dead, not to neglect them while living by any means, but at the same time to follow him. (3) The irresolute follower (v. 61, 62). This man was not troubled so much with going back as with looking back. Ultimately he intends to follow, but his desire is still with others than being set upon Jesus. Like Lot's wife, he is looking back rather than embracing the opportunity to follow. This generally ends in forgetting to follow at all, see Luke 17:32 and Gen. 19:26. Such ones are not fit for the kingdom, e. g., are not ready to enter, nor are they really desirous to enter, Phil. 3:13; Heb. 10:38, 39. Jesus' reference to the plow (v. 62) recalls the call of Elisha. He with safety did bid farewell to loved ones and returned to worship with the prophet, 1 Kings 19:19-21. Jesus intimates that such a step is apt to be fraught with fatal consequences. It is in this case, the spirit of resolution that Jesus commands. No furrow can be plowed straight, when he who holds the plow is looking backward.

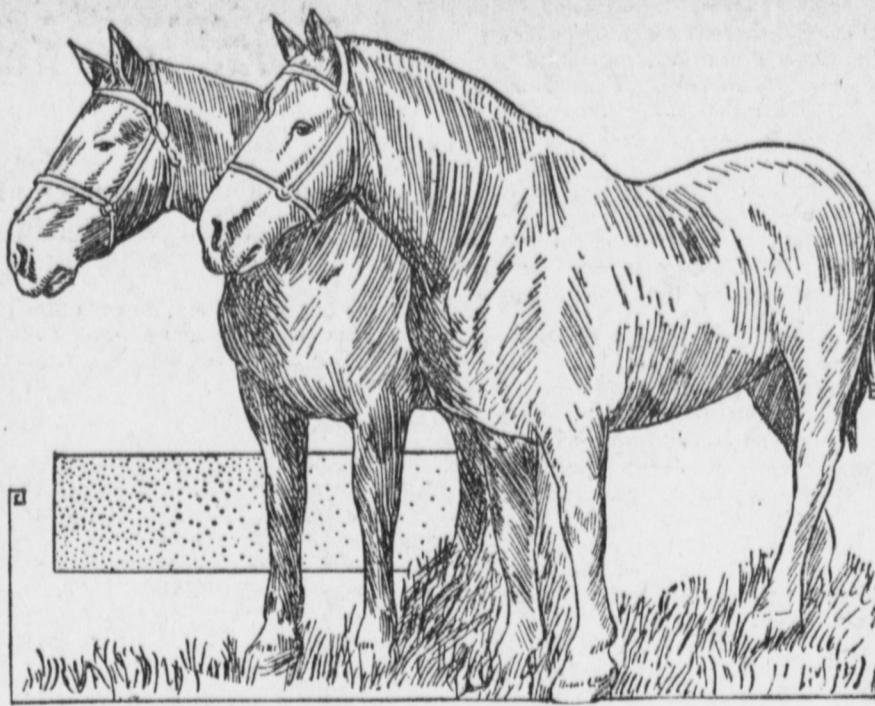

Ever Ready to Serve. II. Those who did follow Jesus, 10:38-42. We now turn to consider this little company who were ever ready to serve our Master. From v. 58 we know that not every home was open to receive Jesus as was this one in Bethany, John 11:1. Though this was Martha's home (10:38), and therefore she felt the burden of hospitality, yet she did not hear the word as did her sister Mary, Mark 4:19. Martha was occupied with duty and Mary, with Jesus. Martha was occupied with many things; Mary was occupied with the "one thing needful." The result was that Martha was "distracted" (R. V.), while Mary was at rest. Jesus wants his disciples, his followers, to sit at his feet and to learn of him. He knows all about duty's dull demand, but the one thing needful is, first of all, to learn of him. Martha's love prompted the service, but there was doubtless much pride that accompanied it. Jesus, as we have seen, was not cumbered with much comfort, and it is doubtful that he was desirous of a big dinner. Jesus does, however, command communion with himself as being, "that good part." Afterwards, when death invaded that circle, it was Martha that had the most intimate dealing with our Lord, see John, chapter 11, hence we conclude that she learned on this day the lesson Jesus sought to teach, viz., that in the life of quiet communion (Isa. 20:15) we shall receive that strength that is absolutely essential, if we are to serve him acceptably. We must not allow the daily legitimate demands of duty to interfere with a life of full, free, fellowship with the Master.

Cleanliness in the Dairy. Cleanliness is of the utmost importance around the dairy barn. The quality of a sample of milk, with special reference to its bacterial count and dirt content, can almost always be taken as an index of the sanitary conditions surrounding the cows supplying the milk. Clean milk cannot be kept clean in a dirty stable. Stables cannot be kept clean, from a hygienic standpoint, without due regard for the rules of sanitation in all of its various aspects.

Englishman's Preference. The English poultrymen prefer the Aylesbury variety of duck, while the French poultrymen pins his faith to the Rouen.

Bespakes Good Care. The colt that keeps its baby-fat the first year tells of good care, skillful feeding and fine growth.

PURCHASING CHEAP HORSES IS EXPENSIVE

Pure-Bred Percheron Mares—Good Types for the Farm.

(By J. M. BELL)

Many people are looking for bargains in horses and mules, especially at this season of the year.

The farmer thinks he can, no doubt, attend a public sale in the large cities and "pick up something a little sore but just as good for work as a first-class animal." In this he is mistaken as he will soon find out.

The "bargains" are all more or less crippled in one way or another and it will be well to remember that the old saying that "Nature never forgives an injury," holds good most certainly with horses and mules.

Spavins, ringbones, side bones, sweeny, navelicular lameness, sprung knees, contracted heels, cocked ankles and other similar ailments are fixtures in 90 cases out of 100.

The writer has bought and sold horses for over 30 years and can hardly recall an incident where one of the cripples has ever been made serviceable sound, much less actually sound.

So the farmer can bear in mind the

ALBERTA CROP YIELDS

At MacLeod, Alta., weather conditions were excellent all through the season. Ninety per cent. of the wheat up to Oct. 1st graded No. 1, the only No. 2 being fall wheat. The yield ranged from 20 to 40 bushels per acre, with an average of 28. Oats yielded well, and barley about 60 bushels.

Inverary is a new district in Alberta. Here wheat graded No. 2 and some of it went 50 bushels to the acre, oats going about 75 bushels.

Lethbridge correspondent says: "In the Monarch district the yield on summer fallow is averaging thirty-five bushels, a large percentage No. 1 northern."

"All spring grains are yielding better than expected in the Milk river district, south. A 300 acre field of Marquis wheat gave 41½ bushels.

"Experimental farm results on grain grown on irrigated land place 'Red Fife' wheat in the banner position, with a yield of 59.40 bushels per acre. Oats yielded 123 bushels to the acre.

"John Turner of Lethbridge grew barley that went 60 bushels to the acre.

"Red Fife averages in weight from 60 to 68 pounds, and at Rostherne the Marquis wheat will run as high as 64 pounds to the bushel, while a sample of Marquis wheat at Arcola weighed no less than 68 pounds to the bushel. This variety is grading No. 1 hard."

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 8.—The problem of handling Alberta's big grain crop is becoming a serious one, and there is a congestion at many points in southern Alberta. One thousand cars could be used immediately. The C. P. R. prepared for a normal year, while the yield of grain was everywhere abnormal, with an increased acreage of about 23 per cent.

Moose Jaw, Sask., returns show some remarkable yields.

Bassano, Alta., Sept. 25, '13.—Individual record crops grown in Alberta include 1,300 acre field of spring wheat grown near Bassano which went thirty-five bushels to the acre and weighed sixty-six pounds to the bushel.

Noble, Alta., Oct. 1, '13.—All records for the largest shipment of grain by one farmer will be broken this year if the estimate of C. S. Noble of Noble, Alberta, proves correct. Mr. Noble has notified the Canadian Pacific Railway here that he will have 350,000 bushels of grain, chiefly barley and oats, ready for shipment very shortly.

L. Anderson Smith, writing to a friend in the Old Country, located at Killam, Alberta, Says:

"Anyone taking up land will find Alberta an ideal province. The soil is a rich black loam, varying from 6 to 12 inches in depth. The land here in this district is not wholly open prairie. At intervals, sometimes closely, sometimes widely scattered, there are small plots of poplar and willows. These generally grow round some small depression in the land, and the snow drifts here in the winter and melts in the spring filling these sloughs (provinces "slews") with soft water. Nearly all these sloughs have old buffalo tracks to them, for it was from them that they always got their water. The poplars are very useful for building barns and hen-houses. Wild grasses are plentiful, while tame grasses, such as timothy, bromé and western rye grass do remarkably well.

Subway Elocution School.

On the New York subway is a school car in which all new employees take lessons in car coupling, door closing and opening, signaling, the operation of motor and brake mechanism, car lighting and heating and what to do in emergencies. Among the subjects taught is elocution. Each raw recruit has to learn how to shout loudly and clearly "Please watch your step" and call out the names of stations distinctly.

Eczema in Water Blister

748 Congress St., Chicago, Ill.—My eczema broke out like little water blisters. Each one was full of water and would itch until I would scratch it open, then the water would run out and it would get sore. I first got the eczema on the back of the hand and I scratched it so hard I made it all sore. Then I got it on my legs just above the ankle and above the knee.

"I used what they call _____ and it stopped the itch but it got worse. Then I used _____. In all I had the trouble for about two years. One day I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper. I wrote for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I tried them and then bought some more. Cuticura Soap and Ointment left my sores nice and smooth. I used them for six weeks, and am now cured; the eczema left no marks." (Signed) F. W. Horriss, Oct. 19, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book, Boston.—Adv.

Iceless Refrigerator.

What might be termed an iceless refrigerator has been invented by an Oregon man, a double-walled chest, between the walls of which is packed salt to protect its contents from surrounding warm air.

Dealers should not buy by sample, no matter how good the sample may be, but should endeavor to limit his supply to seed which he knows was grown from pure and true stock seed and, as far as possible, to that which was subject, while growing to his own inspection.

Knowledge, experience and care on the part of the grower will also contribute much to a higher standard, and consequently to higher prices and better market conditions generally.

The English poultrymen prefer the Aylesbury variety of duck, while the French poultrymen pins his faith to the Rouen.

TOMORROW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

The Sphere of Women. (Luke 8:1-3; 9:57-62; 10:38-42.)

Luke alone brings some of these things to our attention. He finds a place in his Gospel of Christ to tell what women did. He was not a suffragist, yet he might have been one had there been suffragettes presenting their cause to him. Doubtless some women think they are doing a great service to humanity when they press the claims of their sisters for a vote. And maybe our Mason County suffragettes think their task is so great they are excused from doing any very active work in the church itself. Women have done so much and are doing so much in maintaining the church that even a suggestion of their not doing so seems out of place. To prove this step into any church in Maysville next Sunday and see which numbers the most men or women. But what we are driving at in this paragraph is that some women who count themselves religious or Christians have so many other things to take their time they have no time for the church itself.
